CALL FOR CHAPTERS IN EDITED BOOK

(To be published by a Renowned Publishing House with ISBN)

"Tribal Society : From Marginal to Mainstream"

Sir/Madam,

We are inviting academicians, researchers, and scholars to submit original, unpublished, and quality research chapters to an edited book titled as Tribal Society : From Marginal to Mainstream. This is an edited book that aims at discussing how the traditional society of the tribes has changed to modernity, culture, identity, and development in the modern world. It assembles interdisciplinary insights into the critical analysis of historical, social, economic and political and environmental aspects of tribal community, particularly on the example of India and, comparatively, global backgrounds.

Submission Process:

- Full-length chapter (soft copy in Word and PDF formats) must be submitted.
- The submission must not be under consideration for publication elsewhere.

Chapters should be sent via email to:

kocgumlaresearch@gmail.com

Note: The copyright of this edited book shall remain with Kartik Oraon College, Gumla. The book will be published under the aegis and academic supervision of Kartik Oraon College, Gumla. The book is interdisciplinary in nature within the domain of Social Sciences, incorporating perspectives from sociology, anthropology, economics, political science, history, geography, education, and allied social science disciplines.

Submission Guidelines:

Chapter Length: 4000–6000 words,   Abstract: 250–400 words

Authors should add a short bio-note at the end of the chapter in which they should provide name, designation, institution address, email address and contact number.

Submissions must be original and should not violate the copyright or any other rights of the third parties. "The paper or chapter must be free of plagiarism and ensure there are no conflicts of interest."
